South Oshawa Community Policing Centre

With the snip of a ribbon, Regional Chair Roger Anderson joined other local dignitaries to officially open Durham Regional Police's new presence in south Oshawa on February 28, 2002. The South Oshawa Community Policing Centre at 1173 Cedar Street is open during regular business hours and houses six officers and one civilian employee.

Growing in Whitby

Plans for a new Whitby Community Police Office also made progress in 2002 as land had earlier been purchased at the corner of Taunton Road and Anderson in north Whitby. Also, the Police Services Board supported the concept of a new Regional Administrative Centre in Whitby for future Headquarters space. Headquarters is currently located at the Oshawa Community Police Office, which needs more operational space.

Serving Northern Residents

In order to improve service to citizens in Uxbridge Township, a new storefront location was officially opened on the main street of Uxbridge in 2002. Plans were also underway in 2002 to establish policing centres in Sunderland and in Beaverton to better serve the needs of these two communities.

The Durham Regional Police Service is successful because of the co-operation and participation of a wide variety of community partners. The following is a partial list of some of the community stakeholders who greatly assisted the Durham Regional Police Service in 2002:
