Dedicated to Danny Taylor: An Honourary Member of the DRPS Family

An officer from Central West Division on general patrol saw a young boy riding a four-wheeler on his street with his grandmother. The officer asked him if he wanted to sit in the cruiser and run the lights; a simple gesture to put a smile on a young boy's face. What the officer didn't know was this little boy, Danny Taylor, had cancer. He did more than put a smile on his face. Danny loved police officers and this experience meant a lot to him and his family. When Inspector Dave Saliba learned about Danny, he wanted to do more. A planned fly-along on Air1 was thwarted by Danny's deteriorating health. So this time, Inspector Saliba decided to bring the DRPS to Danny. He enlisted the help of many DRPS units to give Danny and his friends and family, the full police experience. Danny put up a brave fight, but he passed away, surrounded by his family, on January 7, 2014.

Roger Anderson
Chair of the Police Services Board

For several years, the Board has been working closely with the police service to identify the most urgent needs regarding new buildings. Several of our existing locations are quite old and one divisional building, in Bowmanville, has been earmarked for replacement for some time.

In June 2013, two significant milestones were achieved. On June 10, 2013 we held a groundbreaking ceremony on a parcel of land at Maple Grove Road and Bloor Street in Clarington to mark the beginning of Phase 1 of the Clarington Police Complex. The first phase includes a new divisional building and a Forensic Investigation Facility. Both of these structures are operational necessities and will serve us well for decades to come.

Later on that same month, the new Operations Training Centre (OTC) was officially opened in Whitby. This highly anticipated building houses an indoor-firing range and a state-of-the-art 911 Call Centre. The range will make a significant difference in operational efficiency, as our police officers can now be scheduled in their own facility instead of leasing space from a local gun club. It's environmentally safe, and sound proof as well. The new 911 Call Centre not only frees up much-needed space in our downtown Oshawa location, it gives our communicators a more comfortable space in which to perform their very stressful jobs.

The OTC also allows us to back up our critical computer infrastructure away from our busiest division in Oshawa, and that resolves a risk-management concern we've had in the past.

In 2013, the police service also launched a Continuous Improvement Program, with the full support and engagement of the Board. The program will endure as the foundation of a comprehensive system to improve the quality and sustainability of services provided.

Thanks to the support and dedication of our Board members, the support from Regional Council and the dedicated men and women of the police service, 2013 will no doubt be remembered as a significant one in the history of the DRPS.

Building for the Future

From the Chief Constable

I have always been proud of the adaptability of our members and the organizational agility of the Durham Regional Police Service. As our Chief Constable, I have a unique observation platform from which to see this flexibility first hand, across all parts of the organization.

Despite budgetary pressures seen across Ontario in policing, I am extremely proud that we were able to bring important new buildings on line in 2013. From our new Operations Training Centre to two new operational buildings in Clarington, we found a way to make these advances with the support of the Board and Regional Council.

I am also very proud that, in this same economic climate, we were able to partner with our fellow emergency services to build a new common radio communications system from the ground up. This solves the problem of aging hardware across Durham Region and brings us all together on one system. Great progress was made on the NextGen system in 2013 and we are all looking forward to our “Go Live” date in 2014.

Our adaptability and agility was also evident throughout 2013 as we confronted the problem of sex slavery in our communities. Members of our Central West Division emerged as leaders in the fight against the growing problem of Human Trafficking—a criminal offence in which young women are forced to perform sexual services for clients. We saw this problem emerge around hotels and motels along the Highway 401 corridor in Oshawa and Whitby, and developed strategies to investigate the exploitation and victimization, while prosecuting those who profit from others.

This year also marked my last full year as Chief Constable of this fine police service, as I have plans to retire in May of 2014. What a privilege it has been to lead such a dynamic team of dedicated, thoughtful and intelligent men and women, who are fully committed to making a difference every day. I look forward to retirement knowing the safety and security of our citizens is in great hands.

Laying the Foundations for Future Excellence

In addition to the progress made on new buildings in Whitby and Clarington, the Board also set the strategic direction for operational excellence.

The NextGen radio system was a major project in 2013, bringing together, for the first time, all emergency services in Durham Region under one common radio platform. Significant work was done in 2013 on this project and full implementation is scheduled for mid-2014. This important project will accomplish two major goals: it provides a solution to local emergency services who were faced with replacing old infrastructure and it will improve efficiencies as local police officers, firefighters and municipalities will be able to speak together on a common channel.

Another significant strategic decision was the launch of a core services review, directed by the Board during last year's budget approval. The Board wanted to make sure the considerable resources provided for in the budget were being deployed in the most effective and efficient manner. The program is an organization-wide effort to identify ways to provide more effective, efficient and innovative services. The Service has embraced this challenge and created a cross-functional team to develop the Service's first ever Continuous Improvement Program (CIP). A great deal of planning took place in 2013 to lay the groundwork for the CIP to move forward in 2014.

The year 2013 marked the final implementation of our 2011-2013 Business Plan. We accomplished our goals in this document and achieved many successes. Work continued in 2013 as we prepared new objectives for the next plan, which takes effect in January 2014.

Building for the Future

Police Services Board

Making Important Infrastructure Investments

The Police Services Board has made it a priority to invest in an aggressive capital program to enhance the capabilities of DRPS. The Operations Training Centre opened in 2013, and we broke ground on construction for the new East Division complex. These are great examples of how we are building for the future.

Construction in East Durham

Not only will the site on Highway 2 in Bowmanville house a new 47,650 sq. ft. East Division building to replace the old and outdated building, but it also includes a new Forensic Investigation Facility. This will offer state-of-the-art resources to receive, process, and secure evidence required in modern court proceedings. The space will include several specialized labs with pressurized air-handling systems. Panel of the Clarington Police Complex is scheduled for completion in 2015.

The Clarington site was selected due to its easy access to both east/west and north/south roads.

The Grand Opening of the OTC

After years of planning, a new, centralized training facility officially opened its doors in Whitby. The Operations Training Centre (OTC) contains a state-of-the-art Communications and 911 Call Centre, a 25-metre, 12-lane indoor firing range, and a secure and central home for police I.T. backup systems. The 47,092 sq. ft. OTC addresses three key operational issues championed by Mike Ewles when he was sworn in as Chief Constable in June of 2007: a firing range; a new communications centre and a secure place for mission-critical computer back-up systems.

The Changing Face of Harm

2013. A female sex worker was pistol whipped and robbed by a client in Ajax. Another young woman came forward claiming a Markham man had been controlling her for two years, forcing her to into the sex trade. Teenagers, some as young as 15, were being forced into the business.

Despite a landmark ruling by the Supreme Court that struck down the main prostitution laws, a troubling byproduct emerged in our communities in

Focusing on the Victims of Human Trafficking

In Durham Region, Operation Northern Spotlight was an outstanding success. A total of 38 young women, many aged 16 to 22, were interviewed in hotels and motels located primarily along the Highway 401 corridor. Investigators believe that 12 of these women were under some level of control. They were offered support services, including health care and mental/emotional supports, in hopes they can consider other options in their lives and break free from the coercion. Clients were made aware of the girls through various websites and often called or sent texts to a cellphone number to arrange the liaisons at local hotels and motels.

In March 2013, Project Spencer focused on human trafficking occurring at various hotels in Whitby. A 33-year-old Whitby man was convicted with Human Trafficking in connection with two women, aged 21 and 23.

Beginning in October 2013, Project Armstrong focused on females in the sex industry who investigators believed might be at-risk. The investigative team encountered 39 escorts, and at least nine of these women had been, or were, victims of human trafficking. Nine men were arrested and are facing a total of 83 charges related to Human Trafficking, firearm offences, drug possession and child pornography. These projects also assisted other police services with locating and identifying suspects and victims.

These projects also paved the way for Operation Northern Spotlight, a national two-day Human Trafficking blitz involving 26 police services from coast to coast, initiated and organized by Central West (CW) Division. More than 330 young women, some as young as 15 years of age, were interviewed across Canada. Police found some were being forced to perform sexual acts, multiple times a day, for paying male customers. They did not want to continue, but felt they had to do so.

On January 26, 2014, Walk with Me Canada named the DRPS the Agency of the Year (2013) for our efforts in combating human trafficking. At a gala dinner, Supt. Brian Osborne and Sgt. Ron Kapuscinski accepted the award for our organization. DRP was selected for the award based on results from Project Spencer and Project Armstrong.

Cst. Phil Groenveld was also on hand to accept an Officer of the Year Award as Emerging Leader for Combating Human Trafficking.

The DRPS remains committed to helping all victims and connecting them with community resources to support them.

Project Michigan Targets Street Drugs

A street-level drug investigation resulted in 58 arrests, almost 300 charges, and the seizure of $47,000 in drugs and three guns. The Drug Enforcement Unit (DEU) conducted a three-month long undercover initiative, dubbed Project Michigan, that targeted street-level drug trafficking throughout the region. The DEU targeted specific areas and persons based on complaints from the public, as well as information supplied by Divisional officers. During the course of the investigation, 19 search warrants were executed. Project Michigan took a large quantity of drugs off the street, including cocaine, marihuana, hashish and heroin, as well as prescription drugs, such as oxycodone, percocet, fentanyl, dilaudid and hydromorphone.

Project Pilot Recognized Provincially

On May 4, 2009, two bodies were found, shot to death, in the trunk of a vehicle parked in rural Pickering. The bodies of Harjinder Sandhu and Puneet Chhina were discovered by officers from West Division. This was a mystery, as neither victim had any real connections to Durham Region. It set into motion a chain of events that consumed the past five years for the victims' families and our police service, as well as our colleagues in the Crown's Office. It remains one of the most complicated, multi-jurisdictional homicide investigations ever undertaken by the DRPS.

A project team was assembled, in partnership with the RCMP, to investigate. The file was identified as a multi-jurisdictional case, with Toronto and the OPP completing supplemental investigations of one of the key suspects: Vijay Singh. Two men were arrested for the murders: John Le on January 21, 2010, in Markham, and Vijay Singh on February 18, 2010, in Vancouver. Both were charged with First Degree Murder and on February 14, 2014, they were sentenced to life imprisonment with no eligibility for parole for 23 years for each murder. They were also sentenced to two concurrent prison terms of 15 years for kidnapping. In addition, Singh received a sentence of 10 years and Le received a sentence of eight years on criminal organization convictions, which are concurrent to the life sentences.

An important criminal organization was cracked open and investigators seized stockpiles of weapons, ammunition and explosives in multiple storage units across the GTA. Our team also managed all security arrangements at the provincial courthouse throughout the lengthy trial.

Project Pilot is an excellent example of a major organizational success. The efforts by our sworn and civilian members, both operational and administrative, were outstanding, and the case represents an exceptional achievement. We must also acknowledge the contributions of, and partnerships with, other policing and government agencies. Our collective efforts ultimately led to the successful conclusion.

Det. Darren Short, Deputy Chief Paul Martin and D/Sgt. Mitch Martin with the MCM plaque.

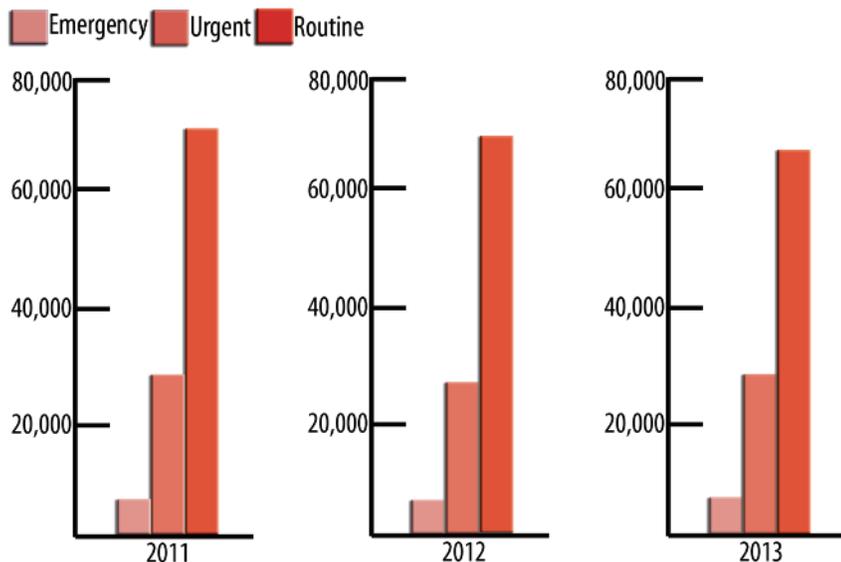

The DRPS, the RCMP and the Crown's Office all received plaques from the director of Major Case Management in Ontario, highlighting the importance of teamwork stating, "In recognition of the coordinated efforts of your organization toward the successful conclusion of Project Pilot. This case demonstrated the highest levels of efficiency through multi-jurisdictional cooperation."

The project would later receive the prestigious Major Case Management Award from the Ontario Homicide Investigators Association.

Priority Calls for Service

Emergency Calls: High threat of serious physical harm; protection and preservation of life, e.g. crimes of violence in progress or imminent.

Urgent Calls: Moderate threat of serious physical harm; precautionary response required to prevent / protect from non-life threatening physical harm; preservation of property, the environment or critical/transitory evidence. e.g. suspect has just fled scene after committing a violent criminal act.

Routine Calls: No threat or only a minimal threat of serious physical harm; non-life threatening situations, e.g. suspect not on scene and immediate apprehension improbable; or non-violent suspect on scene.

Taking to the Skies with Project Mosquito

Project Mosquito had another successful year of uncovering outdoor grow-ops, seizing $5.4 million of marijuana and arresting dozens.

During the months of August and September 2013, members of the Drug Enforcement Unit (DEU), in conjunction with officers from uniform patrol, conducted multiple investigations into illegal marijuana production within the Region. These investigations were initiated as a result of community complaints in both rural and urban areas.

Officers seized more than 4,100 marijuana plants and 100 pounds of dried marijuana, as well as hashish and other illegal substances. Also, four firearms and a quantity of illegal firearm parts, such as silencers and over-capacity magazines, were confiscated. In total, 56 persons are facing 176 charges.

Positive Public Opinion

A public survey, that concluded in March 2013, found more people felt safe in their homes, in parks and in downtown areas than in our last survey. A total of 92 per cent of residents felt safe in their homes at night, compared to 85 per cent in 2010.

A total of 80 per cent of residents were satisfied with the quality of police services they received, compared to 78 per cent in the 2010 survey. The highest levels of satisfaction were found in Uxbridge (85 per cent) and the lowest level was in Brock Township (67 per cent).

Of those who had contacted the DRPS sometime in the past year during an emergency, 71 per cent were satisfied with the quality of service they received. At least 70 per cent of responders rated officers as courteous, trustworthy, professional and knowledgeable.

Youth interaction scores also increased in the recent survey. Only 15 per cent described the interaction between police officers and young people as mostly negative. In the 2010 survey, that number was 22 per cent.

When people were asked to identify the issues that would improve neighbourhood safety, the highest responses were: better parenting (42.3 per cent); stricter sentences for criminals (39.3 per cent) and more police presence on foot (31.2 per cent).

Roadway Safety

The No. 1 complaint in neighbourhoods is road safety – cars speeding through quiet subdivisions or trucks moving too fast through arterial roads. Each Division spent a great deal of time managing roadway safety issues in their community patrol plans in 2013. From running radar in school zones to spot RIDE checks, frontline officers wrote 20 per cent more provincial offence notices. That's over 49,000 tickets, compared to 41,000 the previous year. The popular "In the Zone" program was highly successful, as officers concentrated on school zones in early September and early January. Thousands of tickets were written and many motorists were spoken to in attempt to change their driving behavior.

Celebrating the Success of Our Youth

Sixty-five hard-working and dedicated teens participated in the Youth In Policing Initiative (YIPI) this summer. YIPI is designed to challenge them emotionally, physically and mentally. The goal was to create ambassadors of change within our schools and community as they learned about the important role they play in our society. Throughout the summer, they experienced diversity and anger-management training, mentored children during a week-long camp, fundraised to provide backpack to students in need, hosted a youth forum with over 500 attendees and learned all about the various aspects of policing. Chief Constable Mike Ewles congratulated the students on their accomplishments and challenged them to "pay it forward" as they move into their future.

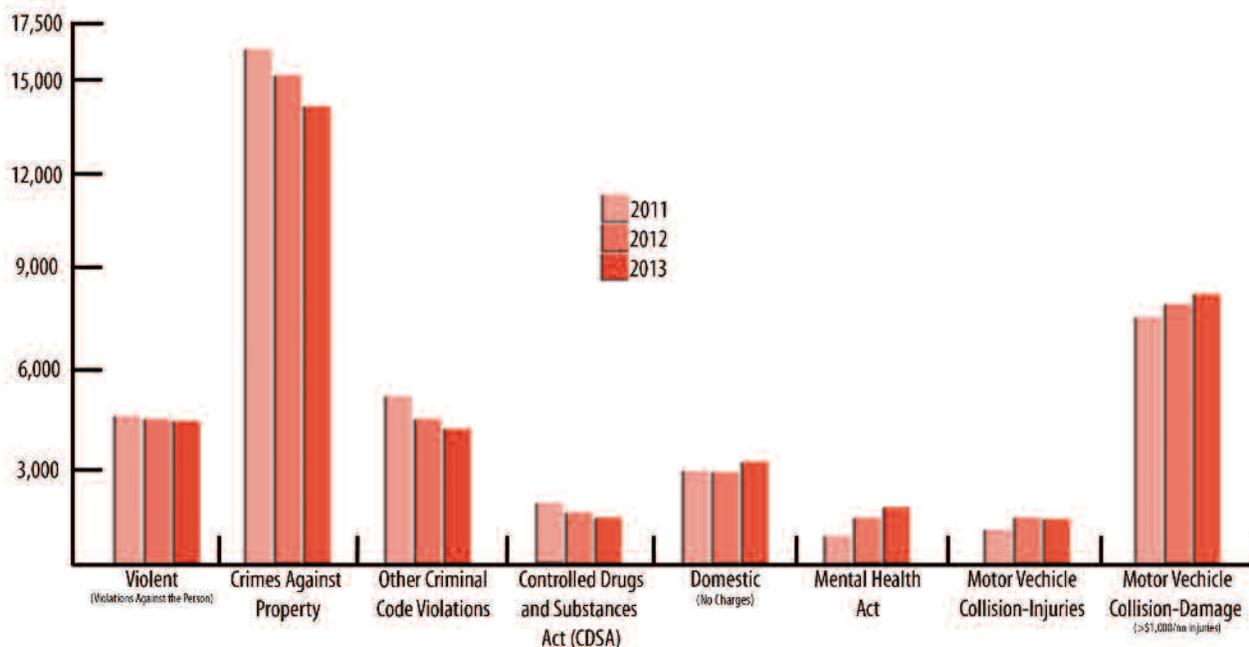

Congratulations to all for another successful summer of amazing experiences and personal growth!

CHIEF FOR A DAY

Mackenzie Jessup celebrated her 10th birthday in grand style when she spent the day as Chief of the Durham Regional Police Service. Chief Ewles handed over the reins on October 15 when Mackenzie was sworn in at Regional Headquarters during the Police Services Board meeting, as her proud family looked on. She was chosen as this year's Police Chief for a Day after a volunteer committee selected her winning essay at a contest.

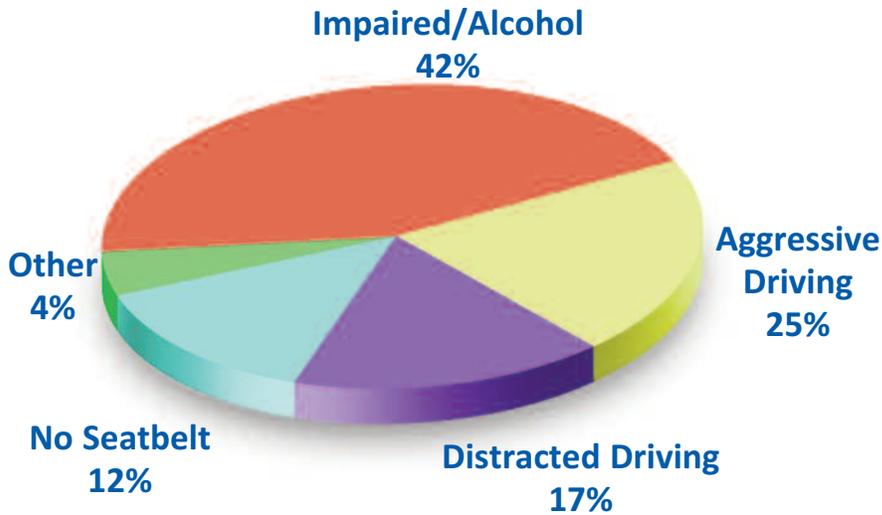

Mackenzie was picked up from Meadowcrest Public School in Brooklin in front of her classmates and teachers, and was escorted to various police buildings around the region to visit members in the Forensic Identification, Communications/911 and Traffic Services Units, before heading to the Police Education and Innovation Centre for some hands-on training. At the PEIC, she got to try some Use of Force options and even got to fire a Taser! Chief Mackenzie wrapped up the best birthday ever by flying over her school in Air 1.

Contributing Factors to Fatal Collisions

An analysis of all 24 fatal collisions in Durham Region indicate four main contributing factors, often referred to as the Big Four Killers on our roadways.

Joint Forces
Get Results

DRPS Inspector Mario Lessard and OPP D/Inspector Patti Dobbin display only a small portion of a large seizure of weaponry from a home in Bancroft, Ont. Through the efforts of DRPS, the OPP and the Provincial Weapons Enforcement Unit (PWEU), an arsenal of 60 firearms was seized, including machine guns, assault rifles, handguns and crossbows, not to mention thousands of rounds of ammunition. The investigation kept these dangerous weapons from hitting the streets. The homeowners are facing a slew of weapons-related charges.

Every year, a number of DRPS investigations involve liaising with police services next door, in Ontario, across Canada and sometimes around the world. We continued to be active participants in a number of Joint Forces Operations (JFO) by sharing information with other police services, and federal and provincial authorities. These include the Provincial Asset Forfeiture Unit, the Provincial Biker Enforcement Unit (BEU); the Provincial Weapons Enforcement Unit (PWEU); the Criminal Intelligence Service of Ontario (CISO); the Provincial Anti-Terrorism Section (PATS); the Integrated National Security Enforcement Team (INSET); the Combined Forces Special Enforcement Unit (CFSEU); the Illegal Gambling Enforcement Unit; and the Repeat Offender Parole Enforcement (ROPE) squad.

Auxiliary Power!

The DRPS Auxiliary Unit again exceeded expectations by contributing more than 21,000 hours of volunteer service to our community.

From Santa Claus parades and major public festivals, to Remembrance Day services and street canvasses, the Auxiliary Unit contributes a great deal to community safety each year. Auxiliary members attended 221 events in 2013 – the most events in the history of the program. With 19 recruits recently selected and trained, the Unit currently has 85 members. There are plans to bring that strength up to 90 members by the end of the 2014.

Drug Haul

The Drug Enforcement Unit and the Gun and Gang Enforcement Unit combined to remove an astounding $12.5 million in illegal drugs off the streets of Durham Region in 2013.

The majority of the drugs were marijuana plants - $11 million worth from 19 indoor grow-ops and 71 outdoor grow-ops. The two teams also seized 23 restricted weapons, 35 prohibited weapons, three stun guns and five knives.

CRC Saving Time, Money

The centralized Collision Reporting Centre (CRC) in Whitby continues to save valuable time for front-line officers. In 2013, 6,269 minor collisions were processed at the Centre, saving the DRP the equivalent of 6.5 police officers. It's the highest number of collisions processed at the CRC. Officers laid 1,359 charges from the CRC, which represents about 22 per cent of collisions reported there. A survey of the drivers who attended the centre found 96 per cent rated the service as either excellent or very good.

Thanks to a generous donation from General Dynamics Land Systems - Canada in London, Ontario, the DRPS has a new tool to deal with dangerous hostage-taking or armed and barricaded person calls.

The Service's new Tactical Rescue Vehicle (TRV) was unveiled in March 2013, at a ceremony in the Colonel R.S. McLaughlin Armoury in downtown Oshawa. The bulletproof, 7-tonne vehicle can carry eight members of the Tactical Support Unit (TSU) and can reach speeds of up to 100 km/hr.

Chief Constable Mike Ewles graciously thanked General Dynamics for the "very generous donation," calling it a significant contribution to public and officer safety in Durham Region.

Complaints, SIU and Pursuits

Public Complaints

Since officers are called upon to deal with very stressful situations and must sometimes detain or arrest individuals against their will, several complaints are received each year.

When considering the 87,000 citizen-generated priority calls for service, the number of complaints remains quite low. In 2013, the DRPS received a total of 95 public complaints, up slightly from the 84 complaints received the previous year.

In most police services, the most frequent public complaints involve allegations of improper language, rudeness or poor attitude amongst police officers. Of the 95 complaints, 24 involved accusations of Discreditable Conduct, five involved Neglect of Duty, 13 identified Unnecessary Arrest/Unnecessary Exercise of Authority and 54 were dealt with by the Office of the Independent Review Director (OIPRD) and not classified.

Most complaints are quickly resolved or are deemed unsubstantiated or unfounded after initial investigation. In some instances, further follow up is required. If the complaint is found to have merit, the punishment for the officer can range from a verbal reprimand to dismissal.

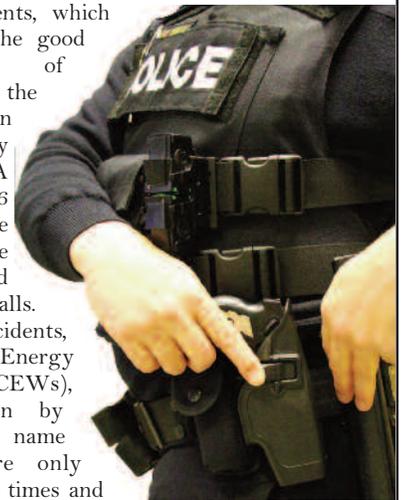

In 2013, a large number—39—were found to be Unsubstantiated after investigation. In five cases, investigators determined the problem was actually not about police conduct, policies or services. Four complaints were dismissed after being deemed Frivolous, Vexatious, or made in Bad Faith. In seven cases, the complaint was actually withdrawn by the complainant after an initial discussion took place.

One complaint led to informal discipline against an officer, and another complaint led to formal discipline against an officer.

Use of Force

The DRP rarely had to use force during hundreds of daily interactions with the public in 2013.

With 86,807 calls for service in 2013, force was used only 0.34 per cent of the time. Only 296 Use of Force reports were filed. Of the 86,807 calls, a threat involving a possible weapon occurred 4,074 times. Officers only used force in 7.6 per cent of these incidents, which speaks to the good judgment of officers and the de-escalation training they receive. A total of 296 Use of Force reports were generated from 238 calls. Of these incidents, Conducted Energy Weapons (CEWs), also known by their brand name Taser, were only deployed 34 times and police dogs were required to use force only 20 times.

POLICE PURSUITS: The number of police pursuits were up in 2013, to 40 incidents. There were 32 recorded in 2012. There were no reported injuries to any of the fleeing suspects, the general public or to the officers involved. Each pursuit is debriefed afterward to ensure the police directives were followed.

THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATIONS UNIT: When a person is seriously injured or killed during any police involvement, the Ontario Special Investigations Unit (SIU) must be notified. In 2013, the SIU was contacted five times by the DRPS and invoked their mandate three times. This was one of the lowest levels seen since the SIU came into being. No major concerns were identified and, in fact, the SIU commented several times about the professionalism displayed by officers throughout their independent investigations.

Business Plan Update

Completion of the 2011-2013 Business Plan

Each police service in Ontario is required to have a multi-year Business Plan to serve as a strategic road map to guide program and service delivery.

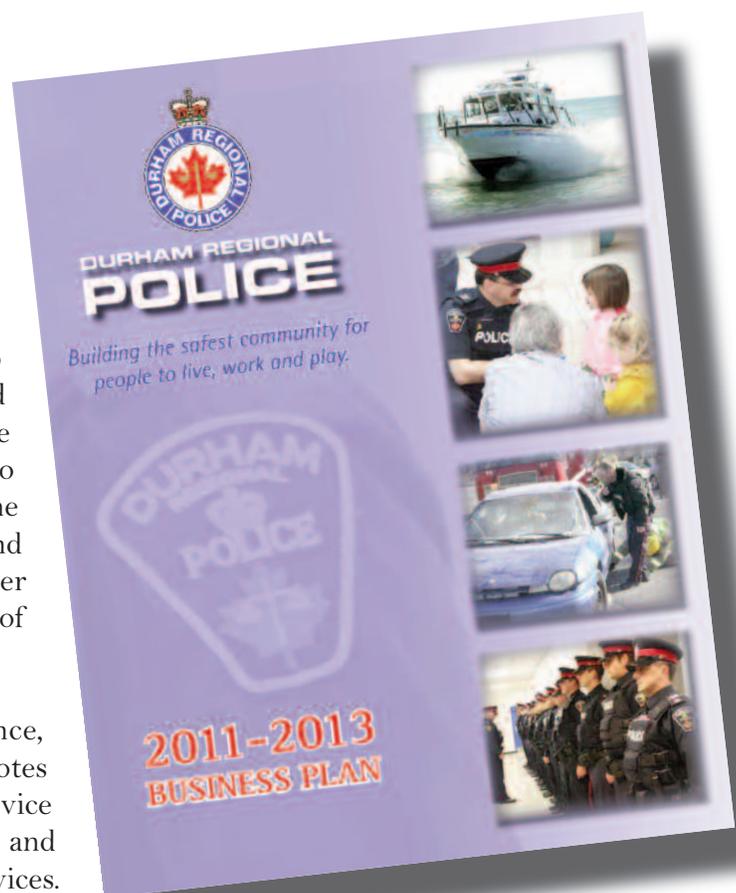

In 2013, the DRPS completed the implementation of 2011-2013 Business Plan, which outlined goals and objectives for the key priorities of community safety, crime prevention through law enforcement and organizational excellence.

The key objectives under Community Safety were to maintain or improve safety in public areas, to increase the protection of property and enhance the sense of personal safety and to ensure safe roads. The DRPS achieved success in all of these areas throughout the life the plan.

In terms of Crime Prevention, the goals were to reduce violent crime through intelligence-led policing and community mobilization, to manage high-risk offenders and to manage issues related to at-risk youth and young offenders. Through the outstanding efforts of our front-line officers and specialized support units, such as the Offender Management Unit, great strides were made in all of these areas.

The objectives for Organizational Excellence, including having an inclusive workforce that promotes learning and values diversity, to enhance police service delivery and operational agility and accountability; and to improve community accessibility to police services. Again, positive steps were taken in all of these areas over the past three years.

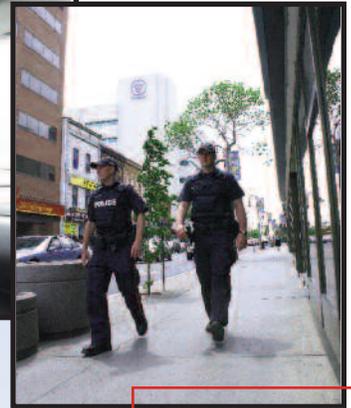

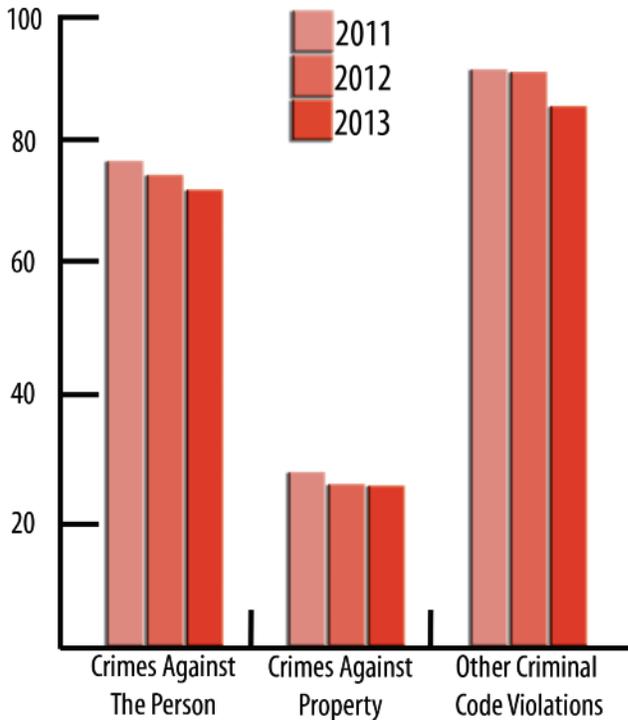

The next Business Plan was finalized in 2013 and it will continue to move these objectives forward, while setting new goals for the service to achieve.

Officers not only keep our local streets safe while on active patrol, but they also participate (often as a volunteer while off-duty) in many community outreach programs. Knowing the needs of the people we police is a top priority.

Proud of Pickering

The Heat (the DRPS rock band that promotes self-confidence and anti-bullying) played at a Proud of Pickering event at Pine Ridge Secondary School.

Community Outreach on Scugog Island

The Public Order Unit, K-9 and Marine Unit helped celebrate our First Nations community on Scugog Island in grand style. Even Air1 dropped by for a visit during National Aboriginal Day. Dozens of local kids got up close and personal with the Bell Jet Ranger III, after it safely touched down on the fairgrounds set up on the Island to celebrate the event. It was a beautiful sunny day and a great opportunity for police officers to mingle with citizens of the Mississaugas of Scugog Island First Nation.

Financial Activity

The vast majority of our budget is spent on wages and benefits. As a key deliverer of human services, the DRPS invests in its front-line patrol and investigative support teams. When compared to similar-sized police services, our cost per capita is very competitive.

Service Awards

It was an evening filled with laughter, memories and support for the men and women who received their exemplary service medals, bars and certificates. Chief Ewles and Deputy Chiefs Martin and Burns were on hand to congratulate the 19 members who reached a milestone of service. And the night also marked the start of a DRPS career: the newest K-9 member, Brock, was presented with his badge.

There are eight officers in the K-9 Unit, including D/Cst. Jason Dickson (Brock's handler) and the team leader D/Cst. Jim Stephenson, who is also pictured here with Chief Ewles and S/Sgt. Mike Cain.

Having the proper knowledge of how to respond to a cardiac arrest can increase the odds of survival by 30 per cent or more. With the use of CPR combined with an automated external defibrillator (AED), the likelihood of survival is 75 per cent or more.

CAPTURED ON VIDEO

The Durham Region Crime Stoppers team of Cst. Mary Carr and civilian videographer Chris Theriault was awarded Best Video Coverage Over Two Minutes by the Ontario Association of Crime Stoppers. The video re-enacts a shooting in Clarington, which was linked to a rifle and military barracks box that was found in a wooden area near the scene.

Making a Difference

Cst. Dawna Murray was given an Appreciation Award by ASIS Toronto Chapter for her work to link citizens with community resources after responding to domestic-related calls involving mental health and elder abuse.

Celebrating Survivors and their Heroes

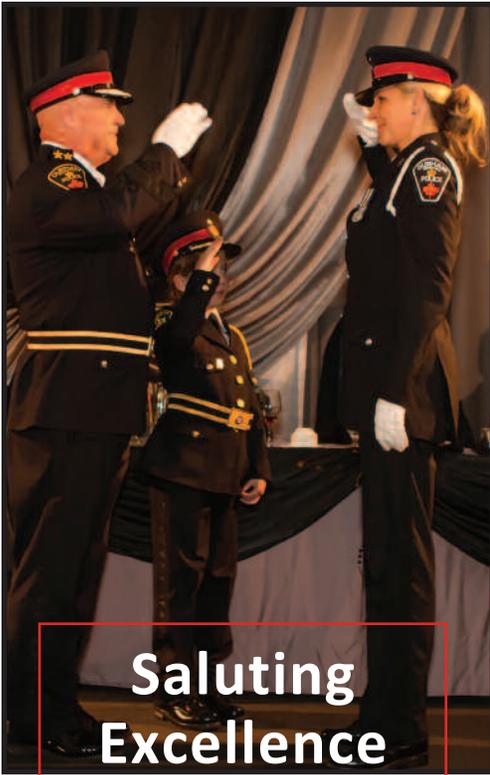

Those days will be ones that neither the heart attack survivors nor those who helped save their lives will ever forget. And to honour the valiant efforts of officers, firefighters, communicators, EMS, and citizens, a Survivor Day ceremony was hosted in Ajax. Some DRPS members were presented with the Lightning Bolt Award for their part in saving the lives of heart attack victims during the past year. Organized by the Central East Prehospital Care Program at Lakeridge Health, the event saw some of the cardiac-arrest victims present the awards to their life-saving heroes.

Police Appreciation Night

Saluting Excellence in Policing

This year, awards were presented to a Constable who was first on scene at a horrific car crash; 9-1-1 Operators who helped free a woman who was essentially being held hostage in her own home; Constables who put their lives on the line to stop a dangerous driver in a stolen vehicle; Detective Constables from TSU who braved icy conditions to save a man who had climbed up a TV tower to hang himself; and members of the team who made up Project Mansfield.

More than $900,000 has been raised over the past 11 years of PADAN and the proceeds are reinvested into policing or community outreach programs involving police officers.

Sworn and civilian members were singled out by the community for their heroism, quick thinking and bravery at the 11th Annual Police Appreciation Dinner and Awards Night (PADAN). The theme this year was “Nothing Beyond Our Reach” as multiple examples of local, national and even international investigations were celebrated.
